OUTSIDE

» Wear a warm hat, and keep feet and hands warm and dry.

» Cover as much of your face as possible while outside, and breathe through a scarf to warm air before it enters your lungs.

» Wear several layers of lightweight clothing, rather than one or two layers of heavy garments. The air between the garments acts as insulation to keep the body warmer.

» Seek medical attention immediately if you have these symptoms:

Hypothermia—confusion, dizziness, exhaustion and severe shivering

Frostbite—gray, white or yellow skin discoloration, numbness, waxy-feeling skin

» If possible, use digital tracking applications for public transportation to limit wait time outside.

AT HOME

» Do not use an oven as a heating device. Read directions before using space heaters and other portable heating units.

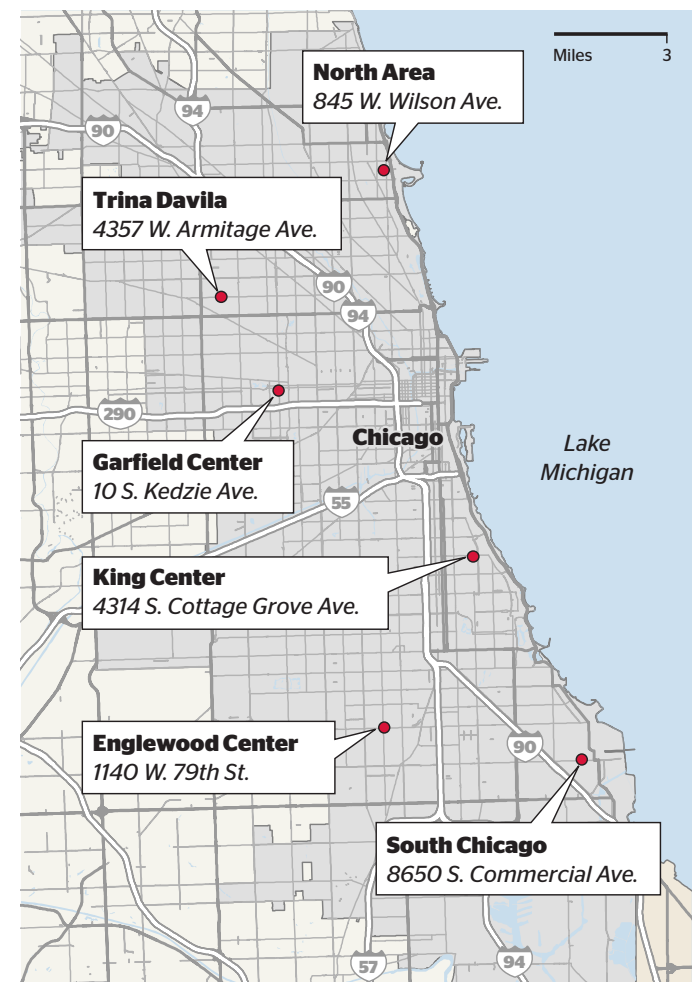

» Check carbon monoxide detectors to ensure they are working properly.

» If possible, run a small stream of water from a home faucet to help prevent pipes from freezing.

» Have bottled water, canned food, flashlights and batteries on hand.

» Residents who have no heat should check with their local officials about warming centers.

» Allow extra time when traveling, and start your journey with a full tank of gas.

» Monitor weather conditions, and adhere to travel advisories.

» Keep a winter storm kit in your car. This should include a cellphone and charger, blankets, food, flares, chains, gloves and first aid supplies.

» Have the car battery and charging system tested.

» Have the brakes checked to ensure they work properly and apply smoothly.

» Make sure the tires are properly inflated.

» Make sure the engine coolant provides anti-freeze protection down to the lowest temperatures you are likely to encounter.

Don't take the 'Dynasty' bait

Stephen Markley

» @stephenmarkley

Let me ask you this: Could you imagine how the civil rights movement would have gone if Facebook had been around back in the '60s?

I picture finding a post in my feed right as James Meredith was attempting to enroll at Ole Miss.

"I'm sorry, but my dad did not fight the Nazis in World War II just so some black guy could have the right to trample my freedom of speech by coming to my historic university! We have a tradition to uphold, and we shouldn't be held hostage by the federal government for standing up for what we believe in!"

If that sounds ridiculous, well, you're probably one of the annoying people who would actually comment on that person's post in an attempt to rebut.

Let's get four very obvious things cleared up.

» That "Duck Dynasty" guy is an idiot. This is what we left-leaning, cosmopolitan snobs are talking about when we say that many conservative opinions are really dumb. It's because that guy probably also believes equally asinine things like President Obama is secretly trying to enact Sharia law, or tax cuts for rich people produce economic growth, or global warming doesn't exist because winter is happening during winter.

» Who cares if that "Duck Dynasty" guy is an idiot? Why, my liberal tribe, do we spend so much Facebook word-space worrying about this effluvia, these pop culture stand-ins for the issues of the day? When your uncle posts a link to Rush Limbaugh or Glenn Beck, just roll your damn eyes and let it go! We don't need an Oxford-style debate every time a Vikings punter gets fired (possibly) for his stance on gay marriage. We're going to win this one. It's the fourth quarter and we're up by like nine touchdowns. Just calm down and go eat Chick-fil-A.

» People who think it counts as a free speech violation when a person says nasty things about homosexuality and gets his reality show momentarily taken away or a person gets denied a head coaching job because he's a bigot: In the above fictional James Meredith example, you are the moron-in-hindsight. If this hasn't dawned on you yet, the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq had absolutely nothing to do with the "Duck Dynasty" guy's right to be an a-hole. The people you know who went to war there and/or died were not fighting for the Minnesota Vikings' special teams coordinator's right to use homophobic slurs. Homophobic slurs would do just fine even if we ended freedom of speech tomorrow.

» Finally, can we all just take a breath? Can we take the vehemence of our public conversation about reality TV and football players and all the other pop culture outrages, and maybe just inch it ever so slightly toward a more substantive conversation? Can we stop impatiently swinging between over-hyped stories of umbrage, spun up by crazed talk-show hosts on 24-hour news networks? No?

OK, good. Because I heard Steven Seagal is about to run for governor of Arizona.

I assume that means the greatest pop culture-political mashup clusterbomb of absurdity is about to come out of that guy's mouth, and I can't wait to write about it.

FRIGHTFUL

DON'T VENTURE OUT INTO DEEP FREEZE UNLESS YOU HAVE TO, CITY WARNS

Chicago Tribune

A dangerous cold front was expected to bring the Chicago area to a crawl Monday, with a flurry of school closings, flight and train cancellations and calls for the public to avoid temperatures expected to drop to at least 10 below zero.

Powerful, freezing winds in the atmosphere will swoop into the area by Monday morning, pulling air from the Arctic through Canada and into the city. Temperatures could fall to as low as 20 degrees below zero, but the winds will make it feel more like 30 below to 50 below, according to the National Weather Service.

"Everyday activities may not be feasible," Gary Schenkel, executive director of Chicago's Office of Emergency Management and Communications, said at a news conference Sunday to detail how the city planned on handling the unusual Arctic blast. "If you can stay indoors, please do so."

To accommodate the phenomenon, airlines are reducing their schedules as aviation workers vigorously clear runways, said Rosemarie Andolino, commissioner of the Chicago Department of Aviation.

At the city's two airports, more than 1,500 flights were canceled Sunday, and aviation officials encouraged Monday travelers to call airlines before arriving and passed out pillows and blankets to those who were stranded.

CTA trains and buses were expected to operate Monday, transit officials said Sunday. Metra trains were expected to run Monday as well, but officials warned of possible weather-related delays and slowdowns. Amtrak officials said the agency would curtail service to and from Chicago.

Meanwhile, school cancellations are set to keep hundreds of thousands of Chicago-area children out of classes Monday, the same day many would have returned from winter break. Chicago Public Schools made its announcement late Sunday, a decision that followed criticism from the Chicago Teachers Union about sending kids to school in dangerous conditions.

Many districts across the area have decided to also close schools for Monday and will monitor the weather to see whether to extend the closings into Tuesday.

Many area colleges and universities also canceled classes for Monday, including the seven main City College campuses and Northwestern University.

Keeping the city's streets clear was proving difficult for Monday morning's commute as streets and sanitation workers battled strong winds and drifting snow, Commissioner Charles Williams said. He said crews would work overnight to deal with snow that may have blown back onto roads.

Illinois transportation officials had more than 1,700 trucks out Sunday evening to clear state roads, 90 percent of which were covered by ice and snow.

"We'll still be playing catch-up" on Monday, Illinois Department of Transportation Secretary Ann Schneider said of crews' efforts. "It's going to be very difficult to see those conditions improve over the overnight hours."

Parts of Interstates 94 and 65 in Indiana and U.S. Route 30 and state Route 38 in Kane County in Illinois were closed Sunday because of the extreme weather.

Back in Chicago, overnight shelters run by the city's Department of Family & Support Services stood ready to increase the number of beds they offer, if needed, but officials said they did not expect demand to be overwhelming, Commissioner Evelyn Diaz said.

“We’re not really anticipating that we’re going to run out of space,” Diaz said. “So our message right now is no one will be turned away.”

City and private agencies Sunday canvassed the streets in search of homeless people. By 2:30 p.m., Nicholas Benedetto, director of case management services at the Chicago-based Franciscan Outreach, had yet to find anyone. “That doesn’t mean anything,” he said.

Sean and Theresa Smith, both 40, waited until darkness fell before approaching a warming center at 10 S. Kedzie Ave. in East Garfield Park, where women, men and children lounged inside a large open room inside the community service center.

Normally the couple sleep under a bridge with layers of blankets, Theresa Smith said.

“It’s so cold we’ve got to do something,” said Sean Smith, while his wife rushed into the lobby area to warm up. “I can’t risk waking up with my wife frozen next to me.”

By about 7:30 p.m., the couple were still looking for a place to stay the night.

This week’s cold snap is expected to be relatively short-lived compared with previous ones in the late 1970s and a five-night string of subzero temperatures in February 2007 that caused pipes to burst, turned highways into parking lots and led to equipment breakdowns on jet fuel trucks at O’Hare.

Still, if thermometers remain below zero through Tuesday, as forecast, it will be the first time since February 1996 that the city has been gripped by negative temperatures for at least 48 hours straight.

Temperatures are expected to creep back above zero by Tuesday afternoon, with a possible high near 30 degrees later in the week. Monday’s deep freeze also is expected to break the record for the lowest high temperature on Jan. 6.

For those staying at home, Chicago Fire Department officials reminded residents to keep space heaters at least 3 feet from anything that might burn, such as curtains and bedding, and to check carbon monoxide detectors.

The CTA and the city’s streets department also plan to use heaters on rail switches to prevent freezing and mix street salt with beet juice to increase melting effectiveness.

The CTA also plans to check elevators at rail stations every 30 minutes in case the cold weather prevents the lifts from working, spokeswoman Tammy Chase said.

Animals, too, face health consequences when temperatures drop.

Pets are more likely to have respiratory problems because of the cold weather, particularly those that are older, smaller or have underlying health issues.

Teenage victim of beating and sex assault remains in critical conditionChicago Tribune

A 25-year-old Northwest Side man has been charged in the mid-December sexual assault of a teenage girl whose injuries were so severe that she remains in critical condition, authorities said Sunday.

Detectives were led to Luis Alberto Pantoja, 25, through DNA that officials collected from a condom wrapper found near the Belmont Cragin backyard where the girl was attacked just before dawn Dec. 17, according to a law enforcement source.

Pantoja was arrested at his home Friday without incident, according to police, who said additional physical evidence was recovered then.

Pantoja, of the 5500 block of West Wrightwood Avenue, is charged with attempted first-degree murder, aggravated criminal sexual assault, aggravated battery and unlawful use of a weapon by a felon.

Pantoja was ordered held without bail during a hearing Sunday. But because he is hearing-impaired and unable to speak, he will attend another bond hearing Tuesday, when a sign language interpreter is available, according to a police report.

Pantoja

Chicago police canvas Belmont Cragin last month after someone assaulted a 15-year-old girl in the area. Luis Alberto Pantoja, 25, was arrested in connection to the case on Friday. NANCY STONE/TRIBUNE

Pantoja was found with a .32-caliber revolver, police said in a release, but it's unclear if he had it during the attack, said Sally Daly, a spokeswoman for the Cook County state's attorney's office.

The attack happened in the 2400 block of North Long Avenue about 5:25 a.m., police said. The girl was found by a neighbor about two hours later, half-clothed and bleeding from the head.

The DNA evidence was run through a federal database of DNA profiles from convicted felons. Chicago police found a match because Pantoja had to submit a DNA sample to law enforcement after a felony conviction for his role in a fatal 2007 traffic crash in Illinois, police said.

In that case, Pantoja was sentenced to six years after he pleaded guilty in 2008 to possession of a stolen motor vehicle and failure to report a traffic crash that involved death, records show. In the plea deal, charges of reckless homicide and failure to report an accident involving death were dropped, records show.

Police officials declined to say who identified Pantoja as the man responsible for the attack on the 15-year-old.

Pope's remarks don't change policy on gays

ROME Pope Francis has taken another step toward making the Catholic Church more inclusive by telling priests to rethink how they reach out to the children of gay and separated parents. But the Vatican warned Sunday against reading too much into the remarks.

"How can we proclaim Christ to a generation that is changing? We must be careful not to administer a vaccine against faith to them," Francis told around 120 leaders of male religious orders during a meeting at the Vatican.

"I remember the case of a very sad little girl who finally confided to her teacher the reason for her state of mind: 'My mother's girlfriend doesn't like me,'" Francis said.

Francis' comments, which he made Nov. 29, were reported Friday by La Civiltà Cattolica, an Italian Jesuit magazine.

"The percentage of children studying in schools who have separated parents is very high," Francis said. "The situation in which we live now provides us with new challenges which sometimes are difficult to understand."

The pope received praise from gay rights groups in July when he said, "If someone is gay and seeks the Lord with good will, who am I to judge?"

His latest remarks were interpreted by some Italian commentators as an opening to homosexual unions.

On Sunday, the Vatican indicated that Francis' comments were more about reaching out to a changing society than giving it a stamp of approval.

"Speaking of an 'opening to gay couples' is paradoxical because the pope's speech was totally general and because even the small concrete example given by the Pope [a girl who is sad because her mother's girlfriend doesn't love her] alludes directly to the suffering of the children," Vatican spokesman Father Federico Lombardi told Vatican Radio.

Also Sunday, Pope Francis announced plans for a visit to the Holy Land in May. He said he would visit Amman, Jordan; Bethlehem and Jerusalem on May 24-26.

Putin eases curbs on protests in Sochi

President Vladimir Putin has eased curbs on demonstrations in the Winter Olympics venue of Sochi in a gesture likely to burnish Russia's image ahead of an event dogged by security and human rights worries. Putin amended a decree to allow groups to hold some marches and gatherings at sites approved by the security services, the Kremlin said in a statement.

Small jet crashes in Colorado airport

One person died and two others were injured when a small plane crashed at the Aspen/Pitkin County Airport in Colorado on Sunday, the Pitkin County Sheriff's office said. Of the two survivors, one sustained serious injuries while the other came away with minor injuries, according to a sheriff's office dispatcher. None of those involved has been publicly identified.

Magnetic fields affect dogs' pooping: study

Dogs can sense Earth's magnetic field—and they show it when they poop. These canine compasses prefer to align themselves along a north-south magnetic axis when they relieve themselves, according to a study in the journal Frontiers in Zoology. The scientists studied 70 dogs of 37 different breeds as they defecated and urinated over two years.

WHY YOU SHOULD ROOT FOR FLORIDA STATE

3 You're on a nostalgia kick

Like parted-down-the-middle haircuts on white people, Florida State owned the '90s. From Deion to Derrick Brooks, Warrick to Weinke to Warrick again, the Noles set a precedent for the Big Time program, moreso than Nebraska, Notre Dame or even Miami back then. Take a look back while going forward at the same time.

2 You are a huge NFL draft nerd

There's been speculation that the Seminoles might break their own record of most players selected from one school in the NFL draft (set last year with 11) this June. Coming off the strength of four consecutive Top 5 recruiting classes, the Noles are LOADED. LOADED, I TELL YOU. The title game is a way to take a look at the stars of tomorrow today!

1 They're going to win

Point-blank simple. If you're one of those goobers who supports winning teams only when they're winning, then here you go. (Also: Everyone hates you, including yourself.) As for everyone else? We've got a lot of firepower on both sides of the ball, and Auburn had to pull off a miracle just to even be mentioned in the same conversation as the Noles. It's gonna be a great one. Remember: The fight song ends with "F-L-O-R-I-D-A-S-T-A-T-E... FLORIDA STATE FLORIDA STATE FLORIDA STATE. WHOOOOOOOO!" takes shirt off gives you a wedgie

Sad your team didn't reach the BCS championship game? Cheer up. Here's why you should root for Florida State or Auburn while you drink/yell at your

WHY YOU SHOULD ROOT FOR AUBURN

3 Everyone loves an underdog

All the sports betting odds I've seen have Florida State as an overwhelming favorite. So you can hop on the FSU bandwagon like so many people already have or—as a Chicago person—you can continue to root for the underdog. You've got plenty of practice with the Cubs, Sox and Bears. Just forget Auburn plays in the SEC and translate your positive energy into cheering for the non-favorite.

2 The SEC isn't that bad

Sometime during the past seven seasons, college football fans have developed this deep-seated hatred for the SEC. I understand—your team probably hasn't been as good as the worst team in our conference. And you probably know someone who knows someone who knows someone who went to an SEC school and is the most annoying bandwagon fan you've ever met. The good news is, we're not all like that. And with some exceptions, my experiences at SEC campuses have been some of the most enjoyable trips I've ever been on. We eat. We drink. And the best part: We invite others to join us.

1 Blue and orange are your colors

Look, as a die-hard LSU fan, I'm running out of good things to say about Auburn. They're a bunch of fools who either didn't have the sense to play for a better program or they're not good enough to play for Alabama or LSU. Odds are you have no allegiance to Florida State or Auburn, so if you're still struggling with whom to cheer for, remember that the Bears wear similar colors to Auburn. Plus, for all you fashionistas, some dude on Bravo said dark blue has a "slimming" effect.

1	After one week of the NFL playoffs I'm still waiting on the Bears game to come on. Is it not on Fox?	... my Packers fan wife has been driving me NUTS! I know, love is blind (and so is Chris Conte—cue rim shot).	... the Chiefs' starting lineup has all moved to Canada and will continue their careers in professional curling. BUT SERIOUSLY.	... I already feel like the kid who didn't get invited to the party. Story of my life.	... the Bengals are looking for a new quarterback.
2	What's been the biggest surprise of the college bowl season so far?	Either UCF or the JV team that showed up in the Alabama uniforms. What the hell happened?	That Urban Meyer closed his yapper!	That anyone ever doubted Michigan State in the Rose Bowl. FIGHT FOR THE ONLY COLORS, GREEN AND WHITE.	That "Alabama Mom" versus "Sooner Bro" fight video! Too bad Saban can't recruit her as a kicker.	That Colorado hasn't won all of 'em. Those Mile High kids have a lot of bowl experience.
3	How did Jay Cutler spend his first weekend with his new contract?	Went to his barber and was like, "I'll have the usual. Wait! Give me the 'sales analyst'!"	Same as he did before he signed his deal—crabby for no reason.	Printing it off, spreading it out on his bed and having sex with "Laguna Beach" star Kristin Cavallari on top of it.	Swimming in room filled with gold coins like Scrooge McDuck.	Re-creating "The Hangover" with B-Marsh, Alshon and Forte.
4	Let's have your prediction for the BCS title game.	My prediction? THE UNDEFEATED FLORIDA STATE SEMINOLES. (Also, I'm taking Tuesday off.)	Herschel Walker will be on my WGN Radio show talking about it. New time starting at 10 p.m. (Yes, shameless plug.)	Win or lose, FSU alumnus Ernest Wilkins will do way too much of two things: drink and cry.	Win or lose, Ernest is gonna cry.	By the end of it, I still won't understand the "War Eagle" chant.
5	If Dennis Rodman can bring ex-NBA players to North Korea, what else can he do?	Get Elliott to get rid of all that Haterade he's been drinking toward the Noles, maybe?	Gamble his money away, drink too much, forget to pay child support and still get a passport. I love this country!	Bring new diseases to North Korea that the country didn't even know existed.	I say he should bring "Duck Dynasty's" Phil Robertson. And leave him there.	Stay there and never come back?

'I'm not going to go crawl in a hole'

Chris Conte won't blame Bears fans for blaming him

Chicago Tribune

Bears safety Chris Conte chuckled uncomfortably recalling how surreal it was to see stories about the Nashville TV reporter with the same name receiving death threats on Twitter intended for him.

"Somebody said, 'Oh, he had such a terrible night getting those threats intended for someone else,' and I was like, how the [bleep] do you think the guy feels who those were meant for?" said Conte, who disabled his Twitter account months ago.

Nobody knows what it was like to be the guy universally blamed for blowing a fourth-down coverage against Green Bay that resulted in an NFC North-clinching, 48-yard touchdown pass to Randall Cobb.

Around town, Conte heard the insults, shared the regrets and accepted the responsibility Bears fans quickly assigned him even if coaches and players insist others were involved.

"If you want to blame one person, fine, I'll be the person, so put it on me if it makes all of Chicago feel better," Conte told the Tribune. "I'm not going to go crawl in a hole because all of Chicago hates me. It's unfortunate. But it still comes down to me and I'm completely responsible for what happened."

What happened was Bears defensive coordinator Mel Tucker called for "zone pressure," in Conte's words, on fourth-and-8 from the Bears 48. Seconds before the snap, Bears linebacker James Anderson turned toward Conte and raised his right arm.

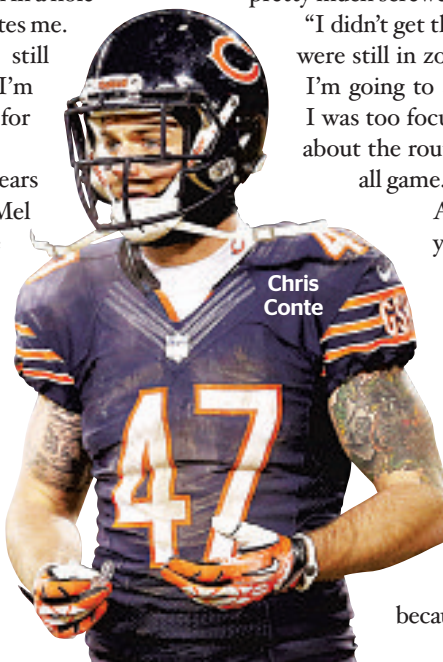

"At the last second, we checked into a call 'Pepsi,' an all-out blitz," Conte said. "It's up to the discretion of the linebacker. ... Everybody comes after the quarterback and if the ball doesn't come out immediately, you're pretty much screwed.

"I didn't get the check and thought we were still in zone pressure, three-deep. I'm going to say it's my fault because I was too focused on my job, thinking about the routes they've been running all game."

As Conte enters the final year of his rookie contract, the once-promising safety assumes nothing.

"I know the Bears are going to bring in someone to compete with me, if not start, but I'm a competitor even if [NBC analyst] Rodney Harrison thinks I'm garbage," he said. "I didn't get to the NFL because I'm not a competitor."

San Jose 3, Blackhawks 2 (SO)

Jonathan Toews and Patrick Sahrp both missed shots in the shootout and Corey Crawford was unable to block the Sharks' shots as Chicago dropped one at home Sunday.

San Jose pulled out to a 1-0 lead midway through the first period after Jason Demers hit a slapshot. Hawks defenseman Niklas Hjalmarsson tied it up, and defenseman Michal Rozsival put them ahead three and a half minutes later when he scored his first goal of the season.

San Jose's Brent Burns scored 11 minutes into the third to tie it up. Crawford blocked 40 shots on the game.

The Blackhawks have now lost three of their past five games. They play New York on Wednesday at the United Center.

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

A relationship could reach a big turning point, courtesy of Venus. Maybe you'll finally propose to your long-time gal. Or perhaps you'll decide to go from "dating occasionally" to "exclusive relationship." Things are getting cozy.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Venus hasn't been helping you. If you're with someone, you're feeling anxious or bored. If you're single, you're feeling anxious or bored. This soon will pass. In the meantime, focus on spending time with great friends.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Mercury will be in your sign for several weeks, and this will increase your sexual magnetism. If you're single, you'll find it easy to meet people. If you're in a relationship, you'll discover a lot more fun in the bedroom.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

You need to be more practical about your relationship. If your guy lives halfway around the world or your girlfriend has been horrifically damaged by an abusive childhood, do you really think things will work out? Pluto says face the truth.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You need to surround yourself with winners instead of losers. You've collected a lot of "strays" over the years. And while these might be charming people, do you really need to be the live-in girlfriend of a major drug dealer or gambling addict?

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Venus is bringing you clarity about your romantic situation. If you're single, you'll figure out exactly how to remedy this problem. If you're with somebody, you'll find ways of forging a connection that is lasting, sexy and a helluva lot of fun.

Aries March 21-April 19

Too much sex is making you stupid. You'll want to lose yourself in sensual pleasure and forget about going to work, walking the dog or paying your bills. Mars is telling you to shake yourself out of that sweaty stupor and tend to things.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

You're thinking about a past romance and comparing it to your current one. This is a good thing. You're super analytical. Maybe you'll realize the person you're with is more of a friend with benefits than the love of your life.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Don't give in to peer pressure. Pluto is bringing all those unpleasant "hive mind" comments to the surface. Your friends are telling you to get married. Your parents are warning you to have kids right now. Ignore them.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Jupiter is making things more intense. Just when you thought that you were handling your lover's recent arrest or unintended pregnancy with another woman, the plot thickens. When did you end up living in a soap opera?

Gemini May 21-June 21

Creativity has always been your middle name, but thanks to Uranus, you'll be even more inventive. You'll schedule a hot date with your honey and plan something really special. Or you'll stage a seduction scene back at your place that will make your guy swoon.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You could have a spirited discussion with someone that starts out with the two of you hating each other and ends with the two of you falling into bed together. The moon is increasing those "I love him, I hate him" vibes.

Literary Events

JAMES L. SWANSON

The Chicago Public Library welcomes James L. Swanson to discuss his book, End of Days: The Assassination of John F. Kennedy, a gripping, minute-by-minute account of the day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. The free program takes place on Tuesday, January 14 at 6 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050. Presented by the Society of Midland Authors.

Join author Joseph Gustaitis as he discusses his new book Chicago's Greatest Year, 1893: The White City and the Birth of a Modern Metropolis at the Chicago Public Library. The free program takes place on Wednesday, January 15 at 7 p.m., at the Bucktown-Wicker Park Branch, 1701 N. Milwaukee Ave. In 1893, the Columbian Exposition marked Chicago's arrival on the world stage, Gustaitis examines this time in history, revealing Chicago as a modern metropolis that rivaled the world's greatest cities. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-744-6022.

Books are not made for furniture, but there is nothing else that so beautifully furnishes a house. ---Henry Ward Beecher

SAMUEL G. FREEDMAN

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Samuel G. Freedman, author of Breaking the Line: The Season in Black College Football That Transformed the Sport and Changed the Course of Civil Rights and Rich Cohen, author of Monsters: The 1985 Chicago Bears and the Wild Heart of Football for a dynamic conversation about football. The free program takes place on Monday, January 13 at 6:30 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050. Photo Credit Sara Barrett.

The Chicago Public Library welcomes a veritable feast of culinary entrepreneurs including Doug Sohn of Hot Doug's, author of Hot Doug's: The Book; Paula Haney of Hoosier Mama Pie Co., author of The Hoosier Mama Book of Pie: Recipes, Techniques, and Wisdom from the Hoosier Mama Pie Company; and Kat Barry of the Chicago Diner, author of The New Chicago Diner Cookbook: Meat-Free Recipes from America's Veggie Diner in conversation with Peter Sagal of NPR's All Things Considered. The free program takes place on Wednesday, January 15 at 6 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

Literary Events and Offerings

Every Saturday, Chicago Tribune reaches more than 1.3 million Chicagoland adults. Tribune readers are book enthusiasts with over 1 million of all Saturday readers visiting a book store in the past twelve months. Not only are Chicago Tribune readers more likely to purchase books, but they also are 86% more likely to spend $200+ than the Chicagoland market average. For advertising rates and deadlines, please call 312-527-8061.

Celebs bring their A-games to party on New Year's Eve

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

Rather than spending New Year's Eve at a private party or on the couch watching the ball drop on TV, some celebrities braved the Chicago-in-January weather and hit the town to ring in 2014.

The Bulls'

Derrick Rose, the Bears' Alshon Jeffery and comedian DeRay Davis were spotted, separately, at Hearts in the Goose Island neighborhood. Davis, a Chicago native, performed that night at Arie Crown Theater, just like he did the previous New Year's Eve.

Burlesque dancer Dita Von Teese had dinner Tuesday at Sunda.

Rose's teammates Luol Deng, Nazr Mohammed, Mike Dunleavy Jr. and Tony Snell celebrated at the Pump Room in the Public Chicago hotel. Fellow Bull Taj Gibson hosted a New Year's Eve party at Sawtooth restaurant in West Town. "Thanks to my bro @nazrmohammed for the tuxedo!!!" Gibson posted on his Instagram account. "Wonderful feeling."

The Bears' Charles Tillman opted for Hub 51's lower-level club, Sub 51. DJing at Sub 51 was Lady Gaga producer DJ White Shadow.

The Blackhawks' Patrick Kane said goodbye to a year in which he won the Stanley Cup and the Conn Smythe Trophy with dinner at RPM Italian. Afterward he headed to Rokit Bar & Grill—where he counted down to midnight with several teammates, including Jonathan Toews, Corey Crawford and Kris Versteeg—and then the Underground.

Playboy's 2013 Playmate of the Year, Raquel Pomplun, hosted the Hard Rock Hotel's party with Playboy. And for the wrestling fans, former WWF personality Jim Cornette appeared at The Squared Circle in Lincoln Park carrying his trademark tennis racket.

Could This Get Rid Of Knee Pain Once And For All...Without Drugs, Shots, or Surgery?

Now, in Downtown Chicago one doctor is helping local residents with knee pain live more active, pain-free lives.

Do You Have Any of the Following Conditions?

- Arthritis
- Knee pain
- Cartilage damage
- 'Bone-on-bone'
- Tendonitis
- Bursitis
- Crunching & popping sounds

Living with knee pain can feel like a crippling experience. Let's face it, your knees aren't as young as they used to be, and playing with the kids or grandkids isn't any easier either. Maybe your knee pain keeps you from walking short distances or playing golf like you used to.

Nothing's worse than feeling great mentally, but physically feeling held back from life because your knee hurts and the pain just won't go away!

Promotes Rapid Healing Of The Injured Tissues.

My name is Dr. Paul Ruzila, owner of Chicago Chiropractic & Wellness. Since we opened, we've seen hundreds of people with knee problems leave the office pain free.

If you're suffering from these conditions, a new breakthrough in medical technology may completely eliminate your pain and help restore normal function to your knees.

Finally, An Option Other Than Drugs or Surgery

The Cold Laser is an outpatient, non-surgical procedure, often used in physical therapy and sports medicine to accelerate the healing process. It offers non-invasive treatment to promote healing for those who suffer from pain in muscles, nerves, and joints, like that associated with chronic knee pain.

This same laser is used by professional sports teams including the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Bengals.

This pain-free, non-surgical approach works by stimulating the body's natural healing processes, providing pain relief and reducing injury damage. This leading edge technology has an impressive success rate of returning patients to work, sports and competitive activities, as well as everyday life.

Patients treated with the Cold Laser often show a higher level of function, both during and after the treatment period. The therapeutic laser provides a tremendous alternative for those facing surgery.

Could This Non-Invasive, Natural Treatment Be The Answer To Your Knee Pain?

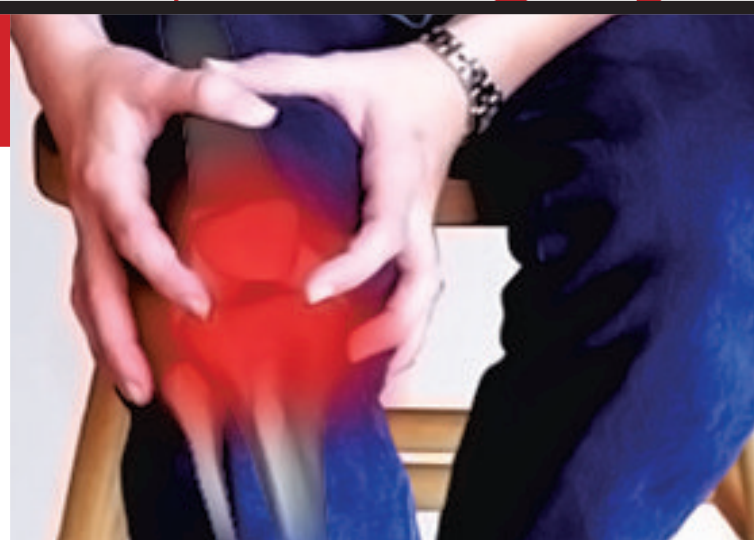

For the First 25 Callers Only, I'm running a very special offer where you can find out if you are a candidate for Cold Laser therapy.

What does this offer include? Everything I normally do in my "Knee Pain Evaluation". Just call and here's what you'll get...

- An in-depth consultation about your problem where I will listen...really listen...to the details of your case.
- A complete neuromuscular examination.
- A thorough analysis of your exam findings so we can start mapping out your plan to being pain free.
- You'll see everything first hand and find out if this amazing treatment will be your pain solution, like it has been for so many other patients.

The First 25 Callers Only can get everything I've listed here for only $35. The normal price for this type of evaluation is $250, so you're saving a considerable amount by taking me up on this offer.

Remember what it was like before you had knee problems; when you were pain free and could enjoy everything life had to offer? It can be that way again. Don't neglect your problem any longer – don't wait until it's too late.

Here's what to do now:

Due to the expected demand for this special offer, I urge you to call our office at once. The phone number is 312-212-1150.

Call today and we can get started with your consultation, and exam as soon as there's an opening in the schedule. Our office is located at 850 S. Wabash Ave., Ste. 290, in Chicago, IL. Tell the receptionist you'd like to come in for the Knee Evaluation.

Yours in Good Health,
Paul Ruzila, D.C.

Here's What Patients Say...

"I was in denial about my knees as I winced on stairs, and put off going for a run. I didn't want to hear that I needed surgical intervention. I admit I was skeptical about how my knees could be improved with such non-invasive procedures. But I am happy to report that I was wrong. I went for my first run in about 18 months. NO PAIN! Thanks for relieving my knee pain!"

Ke$ha has checked into rehab for an eating disorder, according to a statement released Friday to thr.com: "I'm a crusader for being yourself and loving yourself but I've found it hard to practice... I'll be unavailable for the next 30 days, seeking treatment for my eating disorder... to learn to love myself again. Exactly as I am."

Governor Seagal?

Actor. Martial-arts expert. Governor? Steven Seagal expressed interest in running for governor of Arizona during an interview with a local ABC News affiliate. He said he had discussed the matter with controversial Maricopa County Sheriff and conservative darling Joe Arpaio. This is definitely going to end well.

Congratulations?

Listen, Internet thieves, we need to chat about your taste in music. Bruno Mars was the artist whose music was illegally downloaded the most often in 2013, according to The New York Times. Rihanna, Daft Punk and Justin Timberlake were close behind. That makes sense, but ... Bruno Mars? Really? Really?

Folk yeah!

"Inside Llewyn Davis" won big time at the National Society of Film Critics, which announced Saturday that the Coen brothers' movie won Best Picture, Best Director and Best Actor (for Oscar Isaac). Still no word on what happened to that poor cat.
